THE TRAGIC BRIDE

by Francis Brett Young (1884-1954)

The Tragic Bride centers on Gabrielle Hewish, only and lonely child of Sir Jocelyn Hewish, a loveable lush and owner of the peaceful Roscarna estate nestled in the Irish countryside. In due course, young Gabrielle falls in love with a Navy man whose untimely demise sends her into a depression, and the consequences of which alter her future, culminating in a fascinating and quite unpredictable relationship with Mrs. Payne and her troubled son Arthur. A tale of understanding in it's finest sense and aptly titled, The Tragic Bride is both interesting as a story and telling as a character study.
